Course content: This is a continuation of Calculus I. We will continue to study differentiation and integration of functions of a single real variable, with a new focus on: applications of integration; techniques for integration; polar coordinates; sequences, series, and Taylor's theorem.

Prerequisites: Math 156 (Calculus I)
Textbook: Calculus, Early Transcendentals, 9th Edition, by J. Stewart et al.

Grading: 40% Quizzes • Each of two Midterms 20% • Final 20%

In-class quizzes will happen every Thursday, except for weeks when midterms take place. There will be 12 total quizzes and your lowest 2 scores will be dropped (so 10 of the 12 quizzes will count).

Additional homework problems may be assigned, but not collected. Please talk to me if you would like more problems for practice.

There will be two in-class midterms in the semester. They will take place on Thursdays and be announced 1-2 weeks in advance.

The final will happen after the end of classes, during finals week.

You will not receive full credit if you only write only the answers. Please always explain your work and present solutions step by step.

Collaboration on graded assignments is not permitted. The use of calculators, outside notes, or other tools from the Internet, is not permitted. Don't use your phone during class, especially not during tests.

Assignments and grades will be posted to the Canvas page.
